

Randolph Foundation awards first educational grant

---

Randolph Herald
Aug 17, 2018

The Randolph Foundation for Education recently awarded its first educational grant to a Therapeutic Learning Classroom teacher at the Lyons Elementary School.

The award fulfills a $534 grant proposal for “Teaching Self-Regulation and Coping Skills” to purchase electronic and reading materials.

“We’re thrilled to be able to offer our first grant tonight to Dawn Martens, an elementary social worker,” said Judy Conway, RFE co-director.

The RFE’s first program provides mini grants for classroom teachers and funds projects up to $1,000. The RFE expects to fund several more projects before the start of the 2018-19 school year in September.

Continued...

For Donors:

The Randolph Foundation for Education would be nothing without the support of the community – businesses, parents, teachers, and alumni – who give generously every year to support the Randolph Public Schools.

100% of all donations go to programs such as the Competitive Grants Program. Our operating expenses are paid for by separate operating grants and volunteer labor.

The RFE will publicize your business or name at the following donor levels, or alternatively, donors may remain anonymous.

- Gold Scholar - $5,000 or more
- Silver Scholar - $2,500 to $4,999
- Valedictorian - $1,000 to $2,499
- Salutatorian - $500 - $999
- Honor Roll - $250 - $499
- Honorable Mention - $100 - $249
- Teacher's Pet - $50 - $99

For More:

Randolph Foundation for Education
Tax deductible (501(c)(3) pending)
P.O. Box 530, Randolph MA 02368
info@RandolphFoundation.org
Or see our website:
www.RandolphFoundation.org

Randolph Foundation for Education

2018-2019 Annual Fund Appeal

Our mission:

To enhance the quality of education and expand educational opportunities within the Randolph Public Schools by generating and distributing financial and other resources for such purposes.

Competitive Grants Program:

To encourage and reward innovative teaching, we seek proposals, up to about $1,000, with direct benefit to students that involve an individual classroom, several classrooms and/or school-wide activities.

Randolph Foundation awards first educational grant

---

Continued...

“We are proud to be able to support Martens and her efforts at implementing innovative teaching methods specifically to assist students in the Therapeutic Learning Classroom,” said Rebecca Robateau, former school committee member and the other RFE co-director.

Robateau referred to the TLC program for students with emotional, behavioral and learning disabilities.

Martens will use the grant to purchase an iPad “to support students’ self-regulation skills,” she said in her grant proposal, and for books for her daily social skills classes.

“I use children’s literature to teach character traits, decision-making, problem-solving, coping skills and interpersonal skills,” Martens wrote.

The RFE provides private funding for Randolph public schools, gathering donations from local businesses.

“The Randolph Foundation follows a promising practice that has been used successfully in Sharon, Newton and Milton,” said Bruce Pontbriand, an RFE board member and former school committee member. “I’m excited that Randolph is beginning this community-based initiative to help fund the teachers in our schools.”

Randolph Foundation for Education Co-directors Rebecca Robateau (left) and Judy Conway (right) award RFE's first educational grant to Lyons School teacher Dawn Martens. [Photo by Jesse Gordon]

For more information, visit
<http://www.RandolphFoundationForEducation.org>.